

Greater Houston APRA

About us....

The Association of Professional Researchers for Advancement (APRA) is an international non-profit organization to promote a cooperative relationship and exchange of technical information among development researchers.

This APRA chapter promotes the professional development of the research community in the Greater Houston non-profit community and welcomes the participation of all fundraising professionals concerned with research.

Greater Houston APRA events are held several times a year, offering researchers a chance to meet their colleagues in a variety of settings. Research enrichment seminars, social gatherings, and "brown bag" discussion lunches are held in various locations and are publicized through newsletters, e-mail messages and/or flyers. Chapter business is conducted at meetings held in January and September. Annual local chapter dues are $35.
